THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY FOR 1892.

A culture that lacks science is a one-sided culture.

THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY is the one periodical that gives access to the scientific culture of the time, and it will in the future represent scientific thought and achievement even more fully than it has in the past.

Volumes XL and XLI. The valuable series of illustrated articles on

THE DEVELOPMENT OF AMERICAN INDUSTRIES SINCE COLUMBUS, now running in the MONTHLY, will be continued into the coming year. There have already been published three articles on The Woolen Manufacture, by S. N. D. NORTH; four articles on The Making of Iron and two on The Making of Steel, by W. F. DUFEY. The first of two articles on American Pottery appears in the December number. All of these are profusely illustrated; and similar papers on The Cotton Manufacture, by EDWARD ATKINSON and Gen. W. F. DRAPER; Piano-Making, by DANIEL SPILLANE; Glass-Making, by Prof. C. HANFORD HENDERSON and on The Leather, Silk, Paper, Agricultural Machinery, and Ship-building Industries will appear in course.

HON. CARROLL D. WRIGHT will continue his incisive Lessons from the Census. DR. ANDREW D. WHITE will contribute some concluding papers on The Warfare of Science, and there will be occasional articles from Hon. DAVID A. WELLS and DAVID STARR JORDAN, President of Stanford University.

The other contents of the coming numbers can not be definitely announced at this time, but the character of the contributions may be inferred from which the publishers of "The Century Magazine" have labored ten years to produce, is now completed. As the latest comer among the dictionaries it has been able to avoid the errors into which its predecessors have fallen, and to include much that they have omitted—new words and meanings which have but recently come into general use. In its preparation the leading scholars of the country have been employed. The aid of specialists in the various departments of the arts and sciences has also been sought in order that technical words might be defined by those who were practically familiar with the subjects and operations described. The Dictionary contains definitions of two hundred and fifteen thousand words, a larger number than was ever before catalogued in an English dictionary. These definitions it supplements with valuable comments and explanations to such an extent that for brief reference the work answers every purpose of an encyclopedia. The illustrations, which number eight thousand, have also been selected with a view to giving the reader a better understanding of the definitions, and have been drawn and engraved under the supervision of the Art Department of "The Century Magazine."

Twenty years ago our first number was issued with the following statement: "THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY has been started to help on the work of sound public education, by supplying instructive articles on the leading subjects of scientific inquiry. It will contain papers, original and selected, on a wide range of subjects, from the ablest scientific men of different countries, explaining their views to non-scientific people." This task has grown larger and more important with the continual growth of science, and the scope and resources of the MONTHLY have been correspondingly widened. No pains will be spared for its adequate performance in the future.

THE CENTURY DICTIONARY

No one should purchase a dictionary without first examining THE CENTURY. Whether one intends to purchase or not, he will be interested in the large illustrated pamphlet (containing a description of the work, sample pages, etc.) which the publishers of the Dictionary have prepared, and which will be sent, postpaid, to any address upon receipt of five two-cent stamps.

Gobelin Flax Tapestries

Under this name I have recently introduced into the American market a new textile fabric for wall covering, suitable for Halls, Dining-rooms, Libraries, Art Galleries, Parlors, etc.

The Gobelin Flax Tapestries are very durable and can be pasted on like ordinary wall-paper.

A great variety of patterns are manufactured in the different styles—Rococo, French, Italian, Spanish and German Renaissance, Gothic, Heraldic, Henry II., Louis XIV., Moorish, Persian, etc. besides a large assortment of the most aesthetic modern designs. The peculiar texture of the fabric produces an irregular grain of Gobelin effect which cannot be obtained on any other texture. This is the only fabric which shows the grain below the transparent coloring.

Prices are not much higher than those of fine embossed wall-papers.
